A golf course is the grounds where the game of golf is played. It comprises a series of holes, each consisting of a teeing ground, a fairway, the rough and other hazards, and a green with a flagstick ("pin") and hole ("cup"). A standard round of golf consists of 18 holes. Most courses contain 18 holes; some share fairways or greens, and a subset has nine holes, played twice per round.

Wide fairways are the best option if you wish to have the full spectrum of players and golfers using your course and the subtleties that brings must be on the back of a good design. That is to say 'scratch' golfers will not worry re the width of the course as their focus is their game, while the 'duffers', learners need the full width and more for their game.

During lock down we arranged a meeting of the working party, this being a socially distance safe meeting out on the course to look at the state of the fairways. What we were looking at was very damaged and poor at that point and it was clear that the Leather Jacket damage was severe; at that point we were on the verge of a dry spell that would last until the start of June.
